JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 27.—With a captured policeman at the wheel of their motor car, four bandits who participated in the holdup of the Bank of Asbury at Asbury, Missouri, yesterday drove to freedom. The kidnapped officer was Clarence Allison, local motor cycle policeman, who engaged the men single handed in a field near Crestline, Kansas, only to be overpowered and made the instrument of their escape. Several hours after the robbery Allison came upon the quartet on the road near Crestline and opened fire. The bandits, seeing an automobile approaching ahead, feared they were being hemmed in abandoned their own car, taking to the field. Allison also drove his automobile into the field but his car soon became mired. He continued the pursuit afoot and seeing the bandits dart in to a ravine scouted through a wooded section to cut them off. The officer lay in wait and presently three of the bandits came abreast of his hiding place. Allison jumped out and without resistance the men surrendered.

He had marched his prisoners only a few yards when he felt a gun in his back and heard the command to drop his revolver. It was the fourth bandit and Allison complied. Returning to their car with the officer under guard the bandits found the machine stalled and commandeered a car belonging to J. A. Lucas of Columbus, Kansas. Allison was forced to take the wheel while one of the bandits sat beside him with a revolver drawn. The car was driven through Galena and Baxter, Kansas, and Commerce, Oklahoma, and under cover of darkness the men released Allison at the Devil's Promenade, an Indian stomp ground near the Missouri-Oklahoma line while they fled. The officer made his way back to Joplin where he related his experiences. He said the bandits chatted gaily and divided their loot while he was driving for them. Approximately $1,200 was obtained in the robbery.

MIAMI, Okla., Nov. 27.—The automobile in which the four bandits made their escape after holding up a bank at Asbury, Missouri, yesterday, is the same as that taken from John Cole, a local taxi driver, early Saturday morning. It was stated by William Litterell, owner of the machine. Cole was robbed of $7 and the machine by bandits on a residence street here.

Identification of the machine was possible through the bandits having left a bold folder containing Cole's driver's license in the back seat. Litterell will go to Joplin today and expects to return tomorrow with the automobile.

One of the men entered the house under guise of a postal messenger with a letter to deliver. The other came in through a basement window and quickly overpowered Mrs. Wendt. She was unconscious for several hours and unable to give a description of her assailants. Mrs. Wendt is 60 years old.

Albert Relinquishes Task of Moulding New Ministry for Germany

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, Nov. 27.—Dr. Hendrik Albert has relinquished the task of forming a ministry for the German Reich, says an agency dispatch from Berlin. German is thus without a government after an interval of four days since the resignation of the Stresemann ministry, which, however, is still nominally functioning in the interim.

Dr. Albert's lack of success was attributed to the decision of the political parties in the reichstag to oppose a non-partisan cabinet.

ADA HI PIGSKIN SQUAD AT ATOKA

Local Gridsters Tangle for Final Tilt of Season
With Atoka.

The Ada high school football squad, which has suffered defeat only at the hands of the Okmulgee high school, entrained early this morning for Atoka where they play the high school squad of that place in the final gridiron game of the present season this afternoon.

The game, originally slated for Thanksgiving, was changed today through the mutual consent of the athletic directors of both schools in order that fans from Ada and Atoka might have an opportunity to witness the East Central and Southeastern game here without forfeiting their loyalty to the high school.

On the final swing of the season, the local high school has sent one of its best teams into football history. Coach Cox moulded his present team into shape with only three veterans of his last year's squad. His squad represents a completely new machine. The squad will lose the majority of its men again this year through graduation.

Comparatively little dop is available to figure the prospects of the local squad on their invasion of the enemy territory but the brand of football shown by the local squad leaves a marked note of optimism with local fans. The Ada squad may be compared with the strongest teams of southern Oklahoma through the Atoka battle today.

Tigers Ready For Grid Battle

With the chilly breezes and lessening chances of rain, East Central faces the crisis of her season in the state intercollegiate conference with confidence of victory as the outcome of the battle with Southeastern Savages, traditional rivals playing here Thanksgiving.

Coach Joe Milan views his prospect for victory in the most important battle of the grid season added with optimism through the return to the field of some of the players placed on the injured list during the early part of the season.

Johnson who was injured early in the season with Tahlequah, will again don uniform for the final battle of the season and while he may not be permitted to see much of the game, his presence will be felt with optimism by his teammates. Fleming, who suffered a broken jaw in scrimmage, will again be on the field and his presence may add much strength to the backfield. Potts, who suffered a slight injury in the Oklahoma City College game, was permitted a rest and will be in perfect condition for the turkey day battle Thursday.

Milan feels confident that a dry field will prove to his advantage and all East Central is trying to frame the weather man for a respite from his wrath on that date.

With the agreement of officials all preliminary plans have been completed for the impending battle. Roy Spears of McAlester, C. P. Bondurant of Oklahoma City and

G. R. Ramsey of Atoka have been agreed upon by the athletic directors of the two teams to officiate the game. Their duties on the field will be decided at the calling of the game Thursday afternoon.

Athletic directors anticipate no delay in the sounding of the first whistle, which is slated for 2:45. A concert by the College band will precede the on slaughter and sufficient time will be permitted the P. P. organizations. All available seating space will be utilized at Park Field to accommodate the visitors as well as the towns people.

The Durant team and fans are expected here at 11 o'clock on a special train, chartered by Durant people. They will leave immediately after the game.

VETS TO SELECT YEAR'S OFFICERS

New Officials to Bear Brunt of Busy Year in Legion History.

Veterans of the World war will select their leaders for their local official organization when they assemble at the Legion rooms in the Memorial Convention hall tonight.

In the selection of officers for the new year, members of the Norman Howard post, American Legion, will place the burden of responsibility for one of the greatest years of local Legion history on the incumbent.

With the honor of election to high offices comes the leadership in the entertaining of state veterans here this year as well as preparing the Legion rooms of the Convention hall for permanent quarters for the county veterans.

While considerable interest has been taken by members in the election of new officers, little friction is expected as the election machinery of veterans swing into action tonight.

The outlining of a definite program for the years work will be made following the election of officers. The appointment of important committees will also be an important factor.

Following the election of officers a county-wide membership drive will be conducted.

Honest Bill Show Headed Home for Winter Quarters

After being out for two seasons Honest Bill's show is heading for home to spend the winter. Last year it was so far north when winter came on that it took up temporary quarters elsewhere but this year the tour veered southward as the summer waned and will be at home this week.

The season will close here Saturday with a full performance for the benefit of the Presbyterian church building fund, the manager having offered to donate the full proceeds of the event to this fund. This show is too well known here and has established its reputation too firmly to need any special introduction to the public of this county. It is only necessary to say that it is bigger and better than ever.

PROGRESSIVE INS MIDST OF PLANS OF ORANIZATION

Definite Sentiment Crystallizes
With Splicing of Party
Views.

MANY CONFERENCES

Organization and Tax Cuts Still Strong Theme of Next Congress.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Sentiment of senate and house progressives both as to organization and legislation in the sixty-eighth congress is being gradually crystallized.

House members of the Republican progressive group are in the midst of a series of conferences to determine their program. At the same time Republican progressives in the senate are holding informal meetings for a general exchange of views out of which they will come to an understanding on plans particularly with reference to farm, railroad and other legislation.

Organization and tax reduction continued to be the central themes of discussion with Republican leaders seeking to appease the contest in their own party in advance of their organization conference next Saturday. They are seeking to avoid especially any delay in organizing the house and senate and are expected to be prepared to make concessions in the interest of party harmony.

Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the house progressive group, has stated that on the eve of the majority conference in the house the progressives will complete the formulation of their program for reorganization of house committees and modification of house rules. They will go into the Republican conference prepared to make a fight they say unless there is an agreement in advance of the conference.

Differences between the progressives and Republicans of the seafate over organization center on the presidency of the senate. The progressives desire that Senator Cummins of Iowa retain his office, as president pro tempore and relinquish his place as chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee so that Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, leader of their group, may be placed directly in line for the chairmanship.

The majority of the cases now before the War Department Board are those on which payments were withheld in part or in whole until the government determined whether it had a possible action for recovery by the Attorney General on grounds of fraud or other illegal procedure.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Ada's spirit of Thanksgiving will be manifest in a union service to be held in the First Christian church Thursday evening with Rev. R. T. Blackburn, pastor of the First Methodist church, preaching the sermon of the evening.

The churches of the city have all responded to the call to take part in the services and their pastors will have a part in leading their congregations in this special service to fittingly observe this national holiday of Thanksgiving.

While the city will devote its attention to other sources of commemorating the date during the day churches of the city will turn the tide of observance into its rightful channel in the union services of Thursday night.

A program will be arranged by the pastors and others in charge and will be announced later. Several fitting musical numbers will be included.

Church Makes Gift of Property to be Used for Seminary

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—Believed to be unprecedented in American church history, announcement has been made of the gift by a theological seminary of one denomination for the site of its theological seminary. The Garrity Biblical Institute, Methodist Episcopal theological seminary at Evanston of the Northwestern university has deeded property valued at $150,000 to the Episcopal church with the only condition that the ground be used for the training of clergy of the Episcopal church, the Rt. Rev. Charles P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago of the Episcopal church has announced.

Plans for the Episcopal seminary to be erected on the site have been drafted by James Gamble Rogers, architect of Northwestern university.

WAR PROPERTIES BRING FUNDS TO GOVERNMENT

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Sale of War Department properties acquired during the war and declared to possess no military value for the government in peace time had returned $944,579,320 to the Treasury on June 30, 1923, according to the annual report of Assistant Secretary Dwight Davis. The returns made in the 1923 fiscal year totaled $70,447,742 the remainder having been made in 1922 and previously.

An analysis of the returns and costs of the properties disposed of shows that the average percentage of recovery to June 30, last was 38 percent. The cost value of property still on hand for disposition at the same time was $117,828,248, of which $72,562,416 represented the cost of lands and buildings.

The report shows that the War Department still faces a gigantic task in finally adjusting war contracts. The War Transactions Board, created for the purpose of making an administrative investigation of war contracts in cooperation with a similar board appointed by the Attorney General, the report says, had made a good start, and "promises much toward the rational and final settlement of war transactions."

The majority of the cases now before the War Department Board are those on which payments were withheld in part or in whole until the government determined whether it had a possible action for recovery by the Attorney General on grounds of fraud or other illegal procedure.

(By the Associated Press)

A topographical survey of the flood territory must be made before it can be determined how much the control work will cost and what method will be best adapted to conditions, according to S. A. McCrory, chief of the engineering bureau of agriculture, who has returned to Oklahoma City from a trip up the North Canadian river valley. The surveying party covered 700 miles on both sides of the river.

HOUSES OUT FOR JAIL DELIVERERS

Two Escape from Coal County Jail; Local Officers in on Search.

Pontotoc and Coal counties will be the haunts of a search for two prisoners who escaped jail at Coalgate last night and are reported hiding within the radius of the two counties, according to word received at the sheriffs office this morning.

Local county officers were enroute to Coalgate this morning with bloodhounds to trace the footsteps of the fugitives from the Coalgate jail to their present hiding place. The assistance of the local officers was offered after Undersheriff P. H. Deal was notified of the jail delivery by Coalgate officers.

The two fugitives, John Grey and Tommy Wilson, were being held in the Coalgate jail on a charge of horse stealing. Bob Wardrobe, who escaped with Grey and Wilson was captured by Coalgate officers soon after the delivery.

According to word received here, the prisoners forced their way through the cage inclosure and sawed their way to freedom through the run-around to the jail.

Several federal prisoners, held in the Coalgate jail to await transportation to the federal jail at Muskogee, took no part in the jail delivery and did not attempt to escape. Two prisoners sent up from Pontotoc county were among the federal prisoners who did not attempt to escape.

Local officers leave the Katy at Tupelo and continue the trip to Coalgate with Coal county officers.

The amendment to the original petition, according to George W. Emerson, local attorney, will be based upon the statement contained in the emperor's answer to the suit. WEARING MASK IS BANNED BY STEP IN SENATE VOTE

Concession Favored by Ardent Opponent of Anti-Klan Legislation.

FOUGHT BY ANTI-KLAN

Imprisonment and Fine Set
Out as Punishment of Offenders.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 27.—The state senate today adopted a section of the bill regulating secret orders making it a misdemeanor to wear a mask. The action was greeted by proponents of Klan legislation as the greatest concession made thus far by the group opposing strict regulatory laws. The vote was 24 to 13.

A roll call followed a full morning's debate and the section was amended several times before it met the approval of the group supporting the Klan. Finally an amendment proposed by Senator L. West of Hydro was endorsed by majority Wash Hudson of Tulsa, senator floor leader and prominent opponent of laws objectionable to the Klan.

This prevailed and the amendment passed although it has been fought by those favoring strict anti-Klan measures.

The section provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to "wear a mask covering or hood which conceals the whole or any part of the face of the wearer."

Exceptions are listed for children, persons "going to or from masked parties" and those participating in "any public parade of educational, religious or historical character."

Meetings of any organization "within any building or enclosure wholly within or under the control of those meeting there" are also exempt from the provisions of the law as are "circuses or other dramatic shows."

Imprisonment for a period not to exceed one year or a fine in a sum of from $50 to $500 are provided for violations of the law.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 27.—Rebuked by their leaders for alleged insincerity in their consideration of anti-Klan measures, members of both houses of the state legislature went into session today to renew discussion of the proposed legislation with its opponents holding the whip hand.

The controversy extended to the lower house and a long and bitter fight is in prospect before final action is taken on any of the various proposals of an act regulating secret organizations in Oklahoma.

The senate having been admonished by Senator Tom Anglin, president pro tempore, to cease its obstructive tactics and come to a show down, prepared to take up other sections of the bill today after killing a clause yesterday which would have provided that a court order could compel officers of secret organizations to produce their membership rolls. In this way supporters of the proposal were defeated in their efforts to reveal to the public the names of members of secret orders by putting "teeth" in the anti-Klan act.

In the house rival factions with lines tightly drawn again today took up final consideration on the anti-Klan measure after being warned by W. D. McBeck, speaker, that he would "break with every member of the legislature unless adequate Klan legislation is passed."

Those opposed to the measure yesterday prevented the house from taking up the bill by forcing an adjournment until today after a bitter fight over a motion to postpone consideration indefinitely, which was regarded by their rivals as an attempt to kill the measure altogether.

W. J. Otjen, member of the committee, said that if charges are filed in the house against Sigler the action will be delayed until after the expulsion case against Murray Gibbons, representative from McClain county, has been concluded.

Allan Craik

(By Welborn Hope)
It is the hour of twilight on a red-foamed slope
Whose color fields below are stoled in scattered white,
And the burrows of the mole are in the night.

By a lonely, dark, desolate upon the skies,
Behind whose pallid rifts the rising moon yet hides;
Only a quail still penetrates the pall with cries.
From out the thatch of grass where he and his abides:
Autumn has winged its way to forest, field, and hill,
Autumn has dropped a silence just for beauty's sake,
Autumn is on the tip of all, with a trace of summer still.
And autumn's at the hermit's heart, the staidward Allan Craik.

His cabin's halfway up the hillock, facing south.
A crib, a cot, and wadded bed the dismal rear.
A heap of cotton, remnant of the scorching drouth
Nearby depicts the fortunes of a luckless year.
The old horse by the crib, munching a wisp of hay,
Displays a row of ribs, which crowd his shiny skin.
His worn co-hoper, the jaded ass, who lately lay
Such evenings by the trough, is almost twice as thin;
Surely no man of means would claim such penury.
Or condone such an abject want when wealth were rife.
Here Allan Craik did suffer greatest poverty,
Nor hoped for more in all his natural life.

His curses on poor fortune, as he sits this hour
Across his doorway, rise up to the placid sky.
He is a man of might; no minor strength his dower...
His arms like ironwood, and similar his thighs.
O hours of steady toil have bent his sturdy back
And days and years of diligence bring little other
But lines upon his face, and hands all bruised and black.
Little the recompense his fields can ever mother.
So strange, he swears, that rains and drouths should wipe away
His prospects for a home in age, since he has known,
And long foresook for this, a fruitful life another day
On brighter shores, in fairer lands, sea-blown.

For not a common man is he... as one of eight
He sailed the main one day, unknown to any fear.
They were brave men, these mariners, who trusted fate
Around the various globe, and in and out the year.
Trafficked in spices with a tiny craft, but stout,
Braved hurricanes, simoons, and sorts of sailor's luck,
Once reefed on an island, and put to maudlin rout
Ten boats of savages, and never their colors struck.
Perhaps for seven who stayed again, ripe fortune poured
Its richest blessings; but for Allan Craik who quit
At Galveston; forswore the sea with a small board;
None but a landsman's cares his way befit.

But as he forms another curse upon his lips,
A drowsiness pervades his eyes, and droops his head...
Before him seem to be a score of filmy ships
They vanish, and his body drops like it were lead:
Around him are the ghosts of seven men, all come
From one of the vanished craft; a sickly sight they are...
Flesh gone from bones, eyes roused from sockets and each dumb
As limy rock, they move in ghastly file and mar
Their hollow frames from danger with an upraised arm.
Gone down at sea, in fullest prime, these comrades seven
Wander on past, and fade from off the inland farm;
These seven, whose souls have yet no hell nor heaven.

He wakes, this Allan Craik, and slowly rubs his eyes,
And ponders on the landscape, stretching wide and rough,
Thief with conviction to the heavens he wildly cries:
"I live! I live! I breathe God's air! It is enough."

Educational Research School
Reorganized After Lapse of Many Years.

NORMAN, Nov. 27.—(Special)—Reorganization of the bureau of educational research, which was founded in the school of education of the University of Oklahoma in 1913 and was later discontinued, has been perfected this year, according to Dr. W. W. Phelan, dean of the school of education.
The purpose of this bureau are to discover bits of new knowledge with reference to the problems of teaching to afford graduate students of the school of education opportunity to develop ability and interest in research study, to furnish school people of Oklahoma with practical information and material with reference to the solution of current school problems to afford faculty members of the school of education opportunity to carry forward research in their chosen field and to encourage publication of articles in school journals and books dealing with research studies on part of faculty members and graduate students of the school of education.

The bureau is planning to assist superintendents, principals, supervisors, and teachers over the state in a study of school problems. It has organized six departments, five of which are to be under the supervision of faculty members of the school of education, these supervisors being assigned departments most allied to their work. The six departments and their heads are: tests and measurements, Doctor Phelan; school surveys, Dr. Allan M. Ruggles; curriculum investigation, Dr. Ellsworth Collings; intelligence testing, M. O. Wilson; sociological and historical education, Dr. George F. Miller; and

HAS HIGH RECORD

Cornell Mentor Suffers Only
Three Defeats of Teams
During His Career.

(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A notable football coach with a remarkable record, Gilman Dobie, now serving his seventeenth year as a builder of successful football teams, the last four of which he has lifted Cornell to the pinnacle of gridiron glory.

In the 16 years prior to 1923, Dobie-coached eleven won 31 victories, scored three ties and were defeated but three times. Putting up a grand total of 2,931 points as against the 252 for their opponents. And, as this season has witnessed other Dobie victories and the scoring of more than 200 points by his Cornell eleven, his list of triumphs now is close to 90 and the total points scored by his teams is well over the 3,000 mark.

As "Gloomy Gil" he is known and referred to by eastern football writers, and that sobriquet is made the subject of a sketch appearing in a recent issue of the Cornell Alumni News.

The article takes issue with stories which have depicted Dobie as a morose, and somewhat profane, individual. It states that while he can "cuss" on occasions and does, he "cusses out" the play and not the players. It adds his players have unbounded confidence in him and that the faculty agree he is an inspirational leader.

Dobie began his coaching career in 1905 at Minneapolis High school. The next year he became coach of North Dakota Agricultural College, and in 1908 he signed as head coach at the University of Washington, serving in that capacity to 1916. In 1917 he became coach at Annapolis, and remained at the Naval Academy until 1920 when he was signed by Cornell. In that period Georgetown, which defeated his 1919 Navy team 6 to 0; Dartmouth which defeated his 1920 Cornell team, 14 to 3, and Pennsylvania, which defeated that same team, 28 to 0, have been the only institutions to boast a victory over "Gloomy Gil."

The secret of the success of the Dobie system of football play has

INSTITUTE PLAN WORKED IN STATE

State Campus for Institute State During Past Two Years.

NORMAN, Nov. 27.—(Special)—With the state as their campus members of the community institute staff of the University of Oklahoma have been carrying on educational and social work in Oklahoma for the past two years under the direction of the extension division.

The institute has had a remarkable growth during the past two years and, as a result, staff of nine capable young men and women are now doing the work that was done by five people during the first year's trial of the "Oklahoma plan."

"Community institutes have been held for the past ten or twelve years in the states of Wisconsin, Colorado, and Kansas, but the idea is comparatively new in Oklahoma," Doctor J. W. Scroggs, director said Thursday. "The movement has met with great success and now playing a vital part in harmonizing life in the different communities of this state."

The "Oklahoma plan" was worked out in 1916 by Doctor Scroggs, Jerome Dowd, professor of sociology; Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, former president of the university; and H. L. Muldrow, Norman insurance man who has been a member of the university board of regents. The institute owes its start to the efforts of the members of the community service league, New York city, among them John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

"Although the institutes were started before the war, we had to discontinue them until 1919 when an effort was made to renew interest in the work," Doctor Scroggs explained. "We were having a great deal of trouble in getting a new start when officials of the Community Service league offered their assistance."

The league furnished a staff of five members to carry on the first year's work at an expense of slightly more than $15,000. The first institute was held at Cordell in January 1921. Although it had originally been intended that five states, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, would unite in conducting the extension work, officials of the Community Service league discouraged the plan feeling that more good could be accomplished if the work involved only one state.

Doctor Scroggs pointed out that the institute carries something of vital interest to every individual in a community. In this way, the staff members get the people of a community to thinking together. The staff includes workers who devote their entire time to certain phases of life movement, on acting as girls' counselor, one as domestic counselor, one as boys' counselor and still another as vocational counselor.

Thirty-six institutes have been scheduled for this year.

New High Prices in Cotton Caused by Trading Flurry

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27.—New high prices for the season were reached by cotton today, mainly as a result of the abandonment of short time buying by English spinners accounts and an enormous trade in finished goods in Manchester mills. One private cablegram claimed that the English mills were unable to meet the demand for cloths and were actually buying for re-export purposes from Italian mills and elsewhere on the continent.

Locally the first half-hour of trading brought gains of 27 to 47 points which carried January to 35.43.

Stella Vitae Arouses Intense Interest Here

Women Are Flocking Into the Gwin & Mays Drug Store to Obtain a Supply of the Preparation That Has Been Accomplishing Such Remarkable Results in Restoring Health and Beauty and Happiness to the Weak and Suffering.

Few announcements in many years have caused such widespread interest among the women of Ada and surrounding sections as that made recently in The News regarding Stella Vitae, the preparation that is accomplishing such remarkable results in the relief of "Female Troubles."

Women by the hundreds, many of them showing plainly the effects of their miserable suffering, are visiting the local drug stores and investigating the Stella Vitae treatment. Rich and poor alike, they are taking advantage of the opportunity of regaining their normal health strength and beauty by obtaining a supply of this vegetable preparation.

Gwin & Mays have sufficient quantity of the Stella Vitae treatment on hand to meet the present enormous demand, but it is not known how long before their stocks will be temporarily exhausted. For that reason local women are advised to act quickly, in order that they may begin the treatment immediately and determine for themselves whether or not Stella Vitae will benefit them as it has so many thousands of their sisters.

The trial is made easy for any woman, because the interests behind the distribution of Stella Vitae have placed the treatment within the reach of every suffering woman, no matter what her circumstances or station in life. Through the liberal money back guarantee no charge is made if the patient is not benefited.

As a result of this unusual policy, any suffering woman may obtain Stella Vitae and if she does not feel improved after taking the first bottle, the druggist who supplied her will cheerfully refund the purchase price.

This straightforward offer in connection with the distribution of Stella Vitae is made by the Thacher Laboratories in order that no woman suffering from the troubles peculiar to her sex will be denied possible relief. It is not claimed that the Stella Vitae treatment will overcome any woman's disease. It may be that in some cases no medicine will bring relief. Others may need to resort to surgical treatment, but reports from widely scattered sections have already shown that in the majority of cases of women afflicted with what is commonly called "Female Diseases," Stella Vitae does have a wonderfully beneficial effect in relieving the suffering and restoring the patient to normal health, strength, weight and natural beauty.

And it is with the desire of aiding the countless thousands of weak thin, run-down, haggard looking women of America in their suffering, rather than the accumulation of enormous profits, that the Thacher Laboratories are making such wide-spread distribution of Stella Vitae.

It is therefore the positive duty of every suffering woman, not only to herself, but to her loved ones and her present and future children as well, to take advantage of this opportunity to become the normally healthy woman, both in feeling and in appearance, that Nature intended her to be.—Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THAT WHICH SATISFIES:—Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Harken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness.—Isaiah 55:2.

The Okmulgee Democrat suggests that now since the state is getting a breathing spell after disposing of Walton it is an opportune time to renew the Haskell boom for the presidency. As we see it the only result of sending a delegation instructed for Haskell to the national convention would be to give the bunch a free rein to traffic with other candidates, for there is little if any chance of any other state instructing for Haskell. We agree with the Democrat that Haskell was the best governor Oklahoma ever had but that does not mean that he is well enough known in other states to be considered a national figure. We do not take very strongly to this favorite son business. Beyond paying an empty compliment to some popular man of a state it seldom gets anywhere.

The state supreme court has again laid down the rule that where a city is governed by a charter adopted by the citizens, the charter becomes the organic law of the municipality and suppresses all state laws in conflict with the charter, whenever the matter involved is one relating purely to city matters. The constitution and statutes seem to have always agreed on these points and yet, the lawyers, even city attorneys, have persisted in the theory that the city enjoyed only such rights and privileges as were given it by legislative enactments and at every legislature session appeals are made to the legislature for special laws, granting special powers to cities.—Okmulgee Democrat.

As soon as the new administration gets things straightened out it is to be hoped that steps will be taken to put surplus convict labor to work on the roads of the state. We mean building permanent roads and not mere makeshifts. The problem of convict labor has always been complicated because of the opposition to its coming in competition with free labor but in the matter of road work there is plenty for all and there some. Other states have built magnificent systems of roads with convict labor and we believe it could be done in Oklahoma if handled by competent men.

The greatest difficulty met by any reform party is the rush that is made to it by men who have already been discredited by the old parties. These men generally manage to get into the lead and if the party wins these men get their's while the people for whom they ostensibly fought are left to hold the empty bag. Somehow the memory of the public is short and even though a man may have a very unsavory record behind him he is too often received with open arms by what they demand is all the people get out of their efforts the new movement and the same old story of failure to get on behalf of such leaders.

It is stated that more than fifty promoters of fake oil companies have been convicted or entered pleas of guilty in the federal court at Fort Worth. A lot of these who a few short months ago were living in the lap of luxury and to whom a five dollar bill was mere pocket change are now playing checkers with their noses on the grating of prison cells while trying to get their bearings and accustom themselves to their new surroundings. Meanwhile thousands of trusting small investors who fell for their alluring promises of quick riches are wondering how they will be able to live through the winter. Also, legitimate oil concerns have been injured by these vultures.

Already there is beginning to be left some results from the recent oil strike of Gilbert & Clark in section 28-3-4. There is a feeling of optimism and certainty that 1924 is to see Pontotoc county producing oil in great quantities. New wells are to go down east of Ada, north of Ada, west of Ada and south of Ada. Apparently from Jesse on the southeast to Maxwell on the northwest and from Allen in the northeast to Roff in the southwest the territory is to be tested as never before. Not one pool but several may be brought in before spring has passed. Indications are exceedingly good.

The News is of the opinion that the talk about Gov. Al Smith of New York as the nominee of the Democratic party for the presidency will not get very far. Smith and his Tammany gang are avowedly for slackening up on prohibition enforcement legislation, although the Eighteenth amendment is as much a part of the constitution as any other. Murphy of Tammany has already declared for a wet plank in the next national platform but the chances are that such a proposal will not get very far. While the South has always been solidly Democratic it is doubtful if it would go solidly for a wet candidate even though he ran as a Democrat.

The weather man was better today. Probably he is going to a Christmas tree.

Southern doctors have been holding a convention in Washington, but did not offer to prescribe for congress.—Ex.

CHOOSING THE CASKET

The Forum by the Press

Economic Value of Good Roads (Chickasha Express.)

Convincing figures regarding the economic value of good roads were contained in a paper read by Geo. Hogarth, chief engineer of the department of public highways of Ontario, before the Canadian Good Road Association.

The cash value of good roads in the saving of wear and tear on vehicles cannot be too strongly emphasized, said Mr. Hogarth. The benefits of good roads are shown by the reduced cost of maintenance and the longer life of automobiles used over good roads on one hand and over bad roads on the other. One type of car with which every one is acquainted and of which the department of public work of Ontario has a number, has been by that department since 1917, when the highway system was first begun. The cars bought in 1917 and 1918 were run over the roads in the condition in which the highways were when taken over, and in some cases the cars were practically wrecked in one season's wear. When turning in such cars and renewing them the department was allowed a sum of money which represented an average depreciation exclusive of repairs, of $240 per car per year. In 1923 a number of cars were turned in for replacement, and the actual depreciation was $115 per car per year. With 272,000 cars and trucks in Ontario, many of which are more expensive than the car referred to above, and half of which are owned outside of the cities, there would be a saving of $15,500,000 a year on depreciation of cars and trucks owned outside of the cities, using the low value of $115 depreciation per car per year.

German Masses Claimed In Pathetic Condition While Politicians Quibble

(By the Associated Press)

BERLIN.—While politicians quibble and delay, the German masses starve or live on insufficient rations. Unemployment grows at a rapid rate and millions of Germans face a winter of want and privation. Berlin and other cities have no established municipal kitchens. Limited quantities of free fuel are provided for by cards. But the cards and the fuel are dependent upon cards whose issuance is irregular and shares in the general disorder which has spread throughout the control of food supplies.

With the abolishment of the bread cards and the subsequent rise of German blackbread to figures which are fantastic in comparison with the unemployment dole, the situation became more acute than ever and gave political agitators their opportunity to incite riot.

The condition of the unemployed is pathetic in the extreme. By degrees the old people, many of them middle-aged, have been forced to go upon the streets for alms.

But the rioters are not of this class for the most part. It is the youngsters, many of them Communists, and many of them not Germans, who have organized the riots. However, the grounds for violent demonstrations against officialdom are so valid that the extremists have the support of men and women of nearly all classes.

Charges that the demonstrations have had much encouragement from Moscow have not done much to soften the bitterness of the German public toward the government. The fact remains that Germany had an excellent crop this year. There are more than enough potatoes for the German public. Germany had a bumper crop of grain. But the currency crash and the letdown of transportation and general disorganization in the government have made it impossible to distribute the food and enable the public to buy it.

Indignation is general against all parties in the Reichstag. Feeling is high against leaders who have allowed politics to get into such a jangle that politicians seem to be thinking only of the welfare of their particular party and of their own jobs. The public is gradually beginning to realize how badly it was led when the passive resistance in the Ruhr was instituted. While it was predicted by many politicians that abatement of the passive resistance would cause much criticism, the abandonment seems rather to have caused a relief and the public is indignant now that it was ever induced to believe such a step would effect a change in the French attitude.

Absolute neglect of domestic problems in an attempt to solve international problems is the almost universal charge against the government which Stresemann succeeded. The parties are all blaming each other. The big coalition is said by political leaders to have been an error. But the public is in no mood to accept excuses.

Hungry and cold in a country where there is no food and fuel, Stresemann is looked to for help, but not with great confidence on the part of the general public. It has been fooled too often by political promises. The proposed gold currency is looked at with distrust. Socialists and non-socialists alike are not satisfied with their leaders.

follow to suffer for patriotic reasons. That was fine so long as the hardships were occupied by the French. But the Germans who were doing their resistance from comfortable easy chairs for away from occupation when the money presses became so prolific that paper marks would no longer buy potatoes.

China and British India have not changed from oil to electricity or gas, and evidence no desire to change age-old customs.

Human Interest Subjects Up For Discussion With Life Insurance Presidents

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Subjects of human interest will hold first place at the 17th annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents to be held in this city December 6 and 7. There will be presented facts and figures of current experience among the life insurance companies as to what diseases are killing policyholders and how some of those causes, particularly high blood pressure diseases, can at least be reduced. While this subject will be discussed from business and economic angles, it is expected to develop, incidentally, a sentimental appeal to the individual with his desire for longer life.

Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, Newark, N. J., will preside at all sessions of the convention. Life insurance executives, representing 95 percent of the fifty-five billion dollars of old line life protection now outstanding in companies domiciled in practically every state of the Union, are expected to be in attendance. Canadian life insurance companies also will be represented. Federal, state and provincial officials and educators, economists and business men will join in this two-day conference on various national problems.

"The life insurance policyholder of today knows that he has something which his father never heard of, blood pressure," said Manager George T. Wright of the association today in announcing the plans for the convention. "Everybody has always had blood pressure, but it was not until the life insurance companies developed its relationship to tenure of life that the man on the street began to know about it. Through millions of examinations of prospective policyholders these companies have acquired knowledge as to what normal blood pressure is and how far a man may deviate from it before he becomes a poor risk. Experts tell us that high blood pressure may be two or three years ahead of the development of more visible symptoms of approaching impairment in the physical wellbeing of the individual. Life insurance executives now know from their records that men with high blood pressure do not live as long as men with normal blood pressure. Broadly speaking, there seems to be no dispute that continued high blood pressure spells a shortened tenure of life, particularly in those approaching middle age, but there are differences of opinion as to what factors have the most effect in raising blood pressure.

"The approaching convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents is to make a study of this subject based on an original international survey, just completed of blood pressure records obtained from a large number of widely separated countries. These statistics will be presented to the convention by Arthur Hunter, chief actuary of the New York Life Insurance Company. Improvement realized in prolonging human life in the United States in the last two decades has been largely due to the control of diseases in which high blood pressure has not had a prominent part, including tuberculosis, contagious diseases, etc. Those planning the convention are hopeful that this survey will develop both popular and scientific interest in pointing the way further to increase American longevity, particularly with respect to middle ages.

"The character of the various groups of statistics being gathered by the life insurance companies of the country, reflecting their current experience in the aggregate, has determined the theme of the convention, 'An Insured World a Secured World.' These figures, now rapidly approaching completion, indicate an all-around growth of the institution of life insurance in the United States during 1923, picturing an encouraging contribution to national stability. These statistics will deal not only with the unprecedented demand of the American people for life insurance protection this year, but will embrace as well the trend of reserve investments in developing city and country life and in supporting the nation's industries, transportation systems and governmental agencies. Furthering the thought that life insurance produces general economic security, the company executives will also discuss the application of law to life insurance, the attitude of life insurance toward law and the character and influence of agency representation in relationship to keeping the insurance in force."

"I, myself, use Black-Draught for indigestion, and it is fine."

"We used pills and tablets and other laxatives, but they never seemed to do us good, but the Black-Draught sure has, and it has come to our house to stay. We give it to our daughter for headache and torpid liver."

"I am glad to recommend anything that has been the help to my family that Black-Draught has."

"My present health is good. Have two boxes of Black-Draught in the house now."

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 27.—Earle Sande, who rode Zev to victory against Papyrus, the pride of England, first appeared at a race track eight years ago when at the state fair here he asked for chance to ride. Song.—Assembly.
Scripture reading.—Chaplain.
Talk, "Stienmetz."—Mr. Grey.
Round table discussion.—Assembly.
Talk.—Mr. Zimmerman.
Necessary business was taken up after the program. New members were voted upon and admitted into the society. The past week has been a week of effort on the part of members of the society who have earnestly sought for new and valuable material for the society.
The result of this work was very satisfactory as five new members were admitted Monday night and many more applications were presented for membership.

RECEPTION GIVEN METHODIST PASTOR BY WOMEN'S SOCIETY
A social event of no little importance was the reception given Monday evening in the church parlors by the Women of the Methodist Missionary Society for the new pastor, Rev. Blackburn, and his family.

A very pleasant program was rendered in the main auditorium of the church interspersed with delightful numbers from the East Central State Teachers College orchestra during the early part of the evening, after which a more formal reception was held in the church parlors. In the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. Blackburn, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Morris of the First Baptist church, Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Whitwell of the First Presbyterian church, and Dr. A. Linscheid, president of the East Central State Teachers College.

A delightful social hour followed, while all were served with cake and hot punch.
The general program rendered was as follows:
Assembly singing accompanied by orchestra.

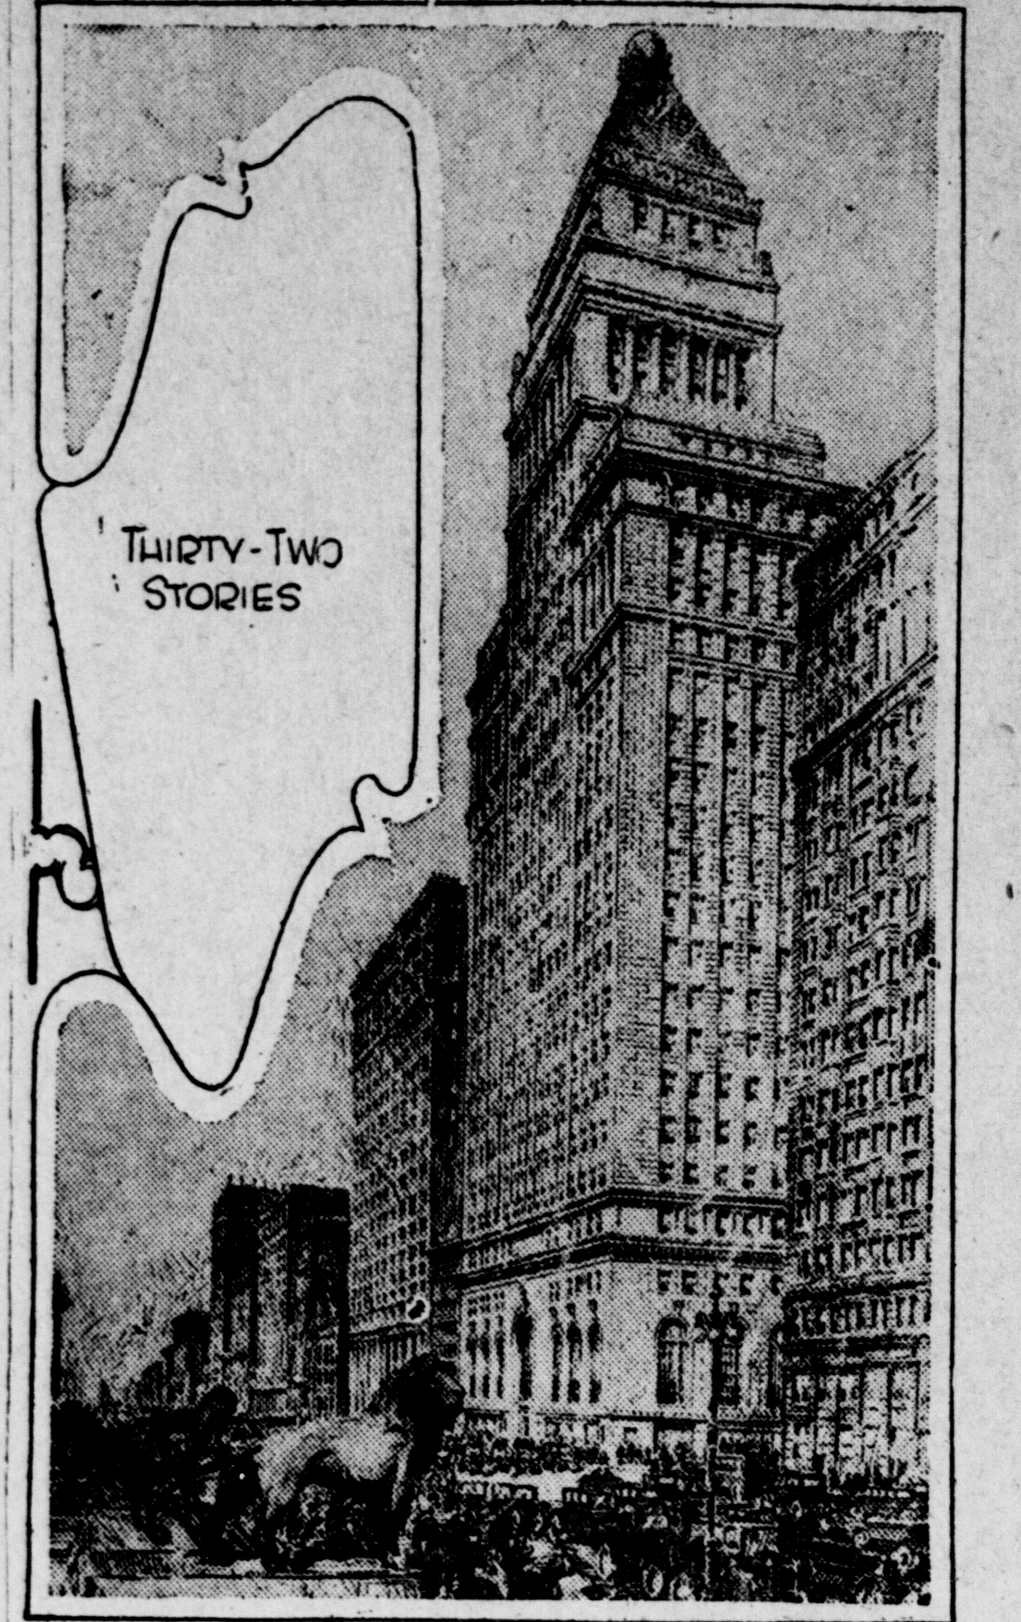

Prayer.—Rev. O. E. Whitwell.
Selection by the orchestra.
Words of welcome.—J. A. Smith.
Vocal solo.—Bonnie Callis.
Reading.—Lady Percy Shaw.
Reading.—Mrs. Duncan.
Cornet duet.—Burgess and Steed and Dick Taylor.
Reading.—Pauline Rollow.
Welcome on behalf of the Christian church.—A. Linscheid.
Welcome on behalf of the Baptist church.—Rev. C. C. Morris.
Selection.—Orchestra.
Welcome on behalf of the Presbyterian church.—Rev. Whitwell.
Response.—Rev. Blackburn.
A very large representative part of the membership of the First Methodist church attended the reception. All returned home at a late hour wishing Brother Blackburn and family a long, delightful, and profitable stay in Ada.

Massive New Tower of Commerce to Pierce the Chicago Skyline

A sky-piercing tower, is about to rise among the huge structures of Chicago.
It is the new fifteen, million dollar Straus building on Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard, which will be completed about March 1 and ready for occupancy two months later. The main shaft of the massive towering structure will rise to a height of twenty-two stories. Then it will carry a ten-story tower centered on Michigan avenue. The structure will take the form of a hollow square, built around the perimeter of the lot with an inside light court surrounded by offices. The best examples of Florentine architecture will be followed. The building will be of beautiful Indiana limestone of which the nation's most artistic and imposing banks and office buildings are constructed. On the Michigan avenue side the center section, about 80 feet across, will be set back two or three feet from the line of the corner sections and carried up into the great tower. This set-back will break the Michigan avenue front, adding a note of distinction.
There will be 400,000 square feet of rentable office space besides the six floors occupied by S. W. Straus & Co., the owners. The giant structure, of which Graham, Anderson, Probst & White are the architects, will be the largest building on the superb Michigan avenue skyline, and one of the finest examples of office building architecture in the world.

REVOLT AVERTED IN AFRICAN STATE
(By the Associated Press)
GENEVA.—The realm of Ruanda has come into its own again. The story reveals how the machinery of the League of Nations often turns to meet out justice to almost forgotten people. But Ruanda does not think it has passed out of the thoughts of the world, for it believes in its greatness and the bigness of its place in the states of East Africa.
When the "Big Four" sitting at Paris sliced up the map of Europe and fashioned new states out of big, old ones, they did a little ribbon work with African colonies. One result was to place the natives community of Urundi and the "Kingdom of Ruanda" under the mandate of Belgium. Formerly they formed a part of German East Africa. But it was arranged that the northernmost part of Ruanda should pass under British mandate, because England wanted to construct a railroad connecting North and South Africa.
Later it transpired it would have been quite possible to build this line without cutting up Ruanda. Complaints began to be received by the permanent mandate commission of the league. With his kingdom cut in twain, the proud native ruler cried out that his prestige was crumbling. Families owning pasture lands on both sides of the new frontier complained they were unable freely to pass from one territory into the other. Cattle thieving became the vogue. Internal conflicts arose, and Ruanda threatened to be red with blood. French and Swiss missionaries warned the mandate people that conditions were dangerous.
The mandate commission brought the matter to the council of the league, and the whole affair was submitted to the British and Belgium governments. These governments were induced to open direct negotiations, and the result was an agreement reconstituting in its entirety the kingdom of Ruanda under Belgian mandate. All Ruanda is now rejoicing, and civil war has been avoided throughout the land.
The bureau of standards is conducting a series of exhaustive tests on the wearing qualities of motor vehicle tires made of reclaimed rubber. In these tests, it is said they will determine what proportion if any of reclaimed rubber may be used without reducing the wearing qualities of the tire.
